VIRTUAL MEETING

MEETING BEGINS: 9:00 AM, END 10:00 AM

"Let the Good Times Roll – In Spite of What We Are Going Through"

Speaker – Marsha Petrie Sue, MBA – President, Communicating Results, Inc

No matter what happens, or who does it, you will learn important techniques to better manage any situation. It's about adding more joy, relaxation, and balance to your life. You will walk away from this presentation with a new, and perhaps, adjusted perspective to share with your people. Applying these ideas to strengthen teams, whether in person or virtually, helps leaders move to the next level. Four key areas will be covered to move your group through these uncertain times:

- Manage your time and don't let it manage you
- Find and create JOY for you and your team
- Develop and live personal a mission statement
- Maintain focus and achieve goals

Remember, they can't get your goat if you don't tell them where it's tied up!

Marsha has over 30 years' experience as an executive and has served as a board member of Fortune 500 companies. Her background includes sales, marketing and public relations. As a former corporate executive, she has applied her extensive corporate background in the speaking industry and as an executive coach. As the Executive Vice President of Westinghouse Financial Services/American Directory project, she worked on projects that helped companies succeed financially. Her ability to train and facilitate employees and executive teams in reaching corporate goals helped organizations achieve maximum results.

Marsha's best-selling books include The Reactor Factor: How to deal with difficult work situations without going nuclear, Toxic People: How to deal with difficult people without weapons or duct tape and The CEO of YOU: Leading yourself to success.
